THE ORIENTAL MAILS.

LONDONERS MARVEL AT C. P. R. RAPID TRANSIT.

Track Laborers Killed by a Train—The Sultan's Ugly Disposition Towards Great Britain—Haytian Exiles not Likely to Hurt Anybody.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Londoners this morning have an unusual theme for conversation. It is the wonderful Canadian Pacific mail record, and everyone is talking about this great event. The City of New York, with the mail from the far East on board, arrived at Queenstown yesterday, and this morning the mails were delivered at the London postoffice, completing the journey between Yokohama and London in under 21 days. This record beats all previous efforts, and leaves the post-office Guide badly in the lurch. That official time table gives the China and Japan mails 31 days via Vancouver and 43 days via the Suez Canal. The fact that the C.P.R. has done the distance in less than half the time required for the Suez Canal route is much commented on, and it is needless to say that the comparison is calculated to raise the C.P.R. route very much in favor among business men, not to speak of the post-office and military authorities. It is probable that the next step will be to dispatch a fast mail from England to the East for the purpose of seeing if the record will hold good both ways. Commenting on the quick transit of the mails, the Times this morning says that the record is pregnant with untold issues for the future of the Empire. At the same time the paper points out that Canada must not rest until the service from one end of the route to the other is completely under British control. It is hoped that this wonderful record will revive interest in the Canada Atlantic fast mail project, which seems at the present time to be in a languishing state.

NEW WESTMINSTER.

The Presbytery Concludes its Work—Temperance People in Convention.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Sept. 10.—A large crowd will go from here to Vancouver on Saturday to attend Labor Day. The artillery band is going along.

The Presbytery of Columbia, in session here, got through a great deal of work and settled many important questions.

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Templars here was a huge success. There were a large number of delegates from Washington state, and they had a fine meeting in Templar Hall last night. Dr. Hall, Victoria, lectured on temperance from a scientific standpoint.

At a meeting of the celebration committee last night the official programme was finally adopted. The Nanaimo football team has agreed to come.

The bricklayers on the Douglas-Elliot block struck for shorter hours yesterday. The trouble was amicably arranged and work is now in full swing.

The Rowing Club's new quarters are finished. They are very comfortable. Haslan and O'Connor will have a suite of dressing rooms, and accommodation for their shells and paraphernalia.

The Haytain Exiles.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—A correspondent who has investigated affairs in Hayti writes: "I think I am in a position to state authoritatively that there is no immediate prospect of the Haytian exiles making a descent upon Hayti. They have exhausted most of their energy in bombastic talk and in mutually reviling one another, and the few of them who are possessed of any money have no desire to spend it on the noble cause about which they write and speak so grandiloquently. Besides they have a wholesome though unavowed conviction that making a descent upon Hayti at the present moment would be very much like putting one's head into a lion's mouth preparatory to descending into his digestive organs."

A Union Pacific Wreck.

BEATRICE, Neb., Sept. 10.—Through an error of a train dispatcher, a special train bound for the State Fair and a regular passenger train on the Union Pacific collided this morning near this place. Both engines and the mail car were demolished. Two passengers, Victor Haynes and Geo. Orton, are probably fatally injured. Conductor Baird was seriously injured in jumping off. Other passengers were more or less shaken up but none seriously hurt.

Nanaimo Matters.

The dissatisfied members of the Miners' Union will hold another meeting on the "Green," Nanaimo, on Saturday. No settlement has yet been reached, as neither faction will give way.

An alarming rumor flew about Nanaimo yesterday to the effect that several miners had been killed by an explosion at Wellington. There was only a harmless explosion, caused by a "pot-hole" of gas.

ANSWER—Yes.

EX-PRESIDENT BALMACEDA.

The Defeated Ruler of Chili Who is a Fugitive.

Jose Manuel Balmaceda was born in 1840. He is an educated man of resolute will, a fluent speaker and an experienced politician. After serving as Deputy in five Legislatures he became Minister of the Interior in 1882. He was one of the founders of the Reform Club in 1868, and in 1874 was an advocate of the separation of Church and State, and as Prime Minister, in 1884, he introduced civil marriage and other liberal laws. He was inaugurated President September 18, 1886, for a term which expires September 18, 1891.

In the beginning of President Balmaceda's administration he fulfilled in a measure the liberal tenets of his early career. The public revenues were increased and the cause of popular education advanced. But soon his policy changed and he showed a disposition to go to unexampled lengths in centralizing the power of the Government, controlling legislation and in manipulating the entire electoral system so as to dictate and control the Presidential succession. The active opposition of the whole Reform party of Chili was aroused and the result was civil war, which was carried on with varying success of both parties, until the final defeat of Balmaceda's army by Col. Canto and the surrender of Santiago, the capital of Chili, to the Congressional party.

THE ROCK CREEK COUNTRY.

A Rich and Busy District—Better Mail and Travel Facilities Required.

Mr. Elliott, the postmaster, and one of the old timers of Rock Creek, is down on a general business visit, and while in town is stopping at the Oriental. Although his section is mainly a mining centre, there is quite a lot of land in the valleys under cultivation, and the tendency in this direction is increasing yearly. Quite lately four families have come in and taken up land. The heads of these families are men possessed of some means and have lots of energy to back their operations. These men came in from Washington prospecting; they had no idea there was such a splendid country there, and the consequence was they came and settled. There is still plenty of "first class, number one" land vacant for settlers of the right class. Speaking of mining operations, Mr. Elliott says there has been a pretty good season gone through; the placer diggings have been worked steadily and have done fairly well. Work on the Laura hydraulic mine has been pushed with energy. The owners have now got to the original channel of the creek and have "struck it rich." Everything is now in a fair way to commencing work next spring, and big results are looked for. The mine is closed down now on account of the low state of the water in the creek, but work may start up again in the fall. Mr. Morris Moss and Mr. Stronach own a claim known as the Carbonates claim. The workmen are down 65 feet, and have struck a rich ledge of galena and sulphurates averaging, from assays already made, as much at $400 per ton. This promises to be a valuable property. Mr. John Douglas representing the Standard Oil Company, who has been away for the past year, has returned and will recommence work at once. Then there is another claim, "The Snowdon" owned by Messrs. Elliott and James, which promises to be rich. The men are down 126 feet, and have met with rich results, equalling in richness the Carbonates claim, some of the assays going $450 to the ton.

There is no doubt that the prospects in this section are very favorable. Business generally has been good on account of the favorable season which the farmers have had. The crops raised this year are remarkably good. There is a feeling that better communication is needed in this fast growing district, and an effort will be made to induce the Local Government to aid in converting the trail from Penticton to Rock Creek into a wagon road. If the Government will give $1500, the people will do the rest. Another improvement sadly needed is a more frequent mail service. At present mails arrive only once a month. Considering that there is a population of about 1000 in this district, paying over $8000 in taxes, a monthly mail service is not adequate to the requirements of such a rapidly growing and busy centre.

Mr. Elliott will be here for some days yet, till his business is completed.

REFUSED TO CALL HER.

NO NEW EVIDENCE YET PROCURED IN THE FRIED CASE.

August May Examined Through an Interpreter—Sergt. Langley Gives Evidence—Mr. Taylor Asks That the Girl be Produced—The Attorney-General Refuses.

As was predicted in last evening's TIMES, H. Fried was re arrested last night on the complaint of August May. Mrs. Fried was also arrested on the same charge. The charge is that Herman Fried and his wife took the girl out of the possession of her father on the 4th of September. At the Provincial police station Fried told that Hattie May was in a dressmaking establishment on Kane street, directly opposite the Fried residence. The girl was found there and made a statement to Supt. Hussey. The Frieds were thereupon allowed out on their own recognizance.

Hon. Theo. Davie, Attorney-General, opened the case for the Crown in the Provincial Court this morning, at 10 o'clock, before Mr. R. Ward, J. P. Mr. Davie said it was necessary for him to apologize for bringing the case before his honor as the case had already been before the Police Magistrate where an investigation had already been held. It was unnecessary to state why the course had been pursued. The primary object of the prosecution was to attempt to save the girl from being taken by people when it cannot be presumed for what purpose. The efforts of the father to learn the whereabouts of his daughter were fruitless, although it was known in whose possession she was. Since the girl's recovery she has announced her willingness to go home. Owing to the prompt action of the provincial police the girl had been found. The evidence of August May and Sergt. Langley, would be submitted, be enough for His Honor to commit the defendants for trial, making a clear case of abduction against them. The law makes it a criminal offense to take a child under the age of 16 years out of the custody of her father. It is easy to work on the feeling of the child. Because the people are poor it is no reason that they should not have their children. The girl would no doubt lead an easier life with the Frieds. Every right-minded man, whether officer, police magistrate or anyone else, should know that a child should be in the custody of her parents. The man had been arrested over a faro table, and it might be said that a man who gambles would do anything else. He would say on behalf of the defendants that as soon as they were arrested they gave information as to the whereabouts of the girl. He called May, who was examined through an interpreter.

His Honor.—Can you speak English?

Witness—No.

The witness then deposed that his daughter had left Seattle two weeks ago Monday. On account of a letter his eldest daughter received last week, he came to Victoria. He went to Fried's house. Mrs. Fried said Hattie had come to Victoria to find employment. He observed several rings on his daughter's hand that she did not have when she left Seattle. His daughter went as far as the postoffice with him, and then she went back to Fried's barber shop. He waited half an hour but she did not return, so he went to look for her. He met Officer McNeill and he accompanied him to Fried's house. The girl was there. The girl refused to accompany him. That was the last time he saw her until last night.

To Mr. Taylor—Before Fried saw a lawyer he was willing to give him his daughter. After he had seen a lawyer he refused to give her up. The last time he saw Fried was between 1 and 1:30 p.m. on Friday. It was after that that his daughter accompanied him to the post-office. The last time he saw Mrs. Fried was between 4 and 5 o'clock on Friday when his daughter refused to accompany him. He did not use foul language to Mrs. Fried. Officer McNeill did not take him away from Fried's for using foul language. He was excited. He had never given the girl any money. What she earned would not pay for her dresses but it went to her mother. He laid the second charge against the defendants as he wanted his daughter. He was sent to Mr. Davie by a saloon-keeper. He had not been cruel to his daughter. He did not care whether she worked or not.

To the Court—He only heard part of the conversation between his daughter and Fried. Fried told the girl to go with her father and he would see a lawyer. The girl was at Fried's house against his wishes and will.

Sergt. Langley gave the same evidence as given in the police court regarding his conversation with Fried.

To Mr. Davie—He arrested the prisoner at 5:30 last evening in a gambling room on Yates street. He was keeping "cases" for a faro game. Fried said he was sorry he had been re-arrested as he thought the trouble was all over. At the police station he had a conversation.

Mr. Taylor objected to any conversation being introduced as the defendants had not been cautioned before making a statement.

Witness—He said he did not know where the girl was since Saturday, then he stated that the girl had been stopping at a dress-making establishment opposite to where he lived. Officer McNeill had gone to make the arrest of Mrs. Fried. When the officer returned he brought both Mrs. Fried and the girl.

Mr. Davie asked for a remand for a week.

Mr. Tayler objected to such a long remand. He understood that the prosecution had a long statement from the girl. They have the girl and should put her on the stand to say whether or not she has been detained. As Attorney-General, Mr. Davie should produce any facts concerning the case for both sides. In all fairness he asked that he be shown the girl's statement. He believed that the statement could not be against the defendants as they had been let out on bail on account of that statement. He charged the prosecution with suppressing evidence. He (Mr. Taylor) is not allowed to talk with the girl who has been in the possession of the prosecution since last night. Why do they not produce her, the all important witness? The fact is they want her to get out of the country before she could be called. He knew he had very little use appearing in court. He knew his honor would not have sat unless he thought more evidence than that given in the Police Court was to be produced. It was a very unusual thing for a justice of the peace to interfere with a police magistrate's decision.

His Honor said he did not know anything about the previous case, and did not think it was his duty to enquire into it.

Mr. Davie—The less said about the previous enquiry the better. It is enough to say that the city authorities could not find the girl while it only took the provincial police a few hours to do so. He did not intend to gratify the idlers' curiosity by dragging the girl into a police court.

Mr. Taylor dared the Attorney-General to produce the girl in court.

Mr. Davie refused to do so.

Mr. Taylor then asked for a subpoena for the girl.

Mr. Ward refused to give him a subpoena to-day, reserving his decision for a week.

Mr. Taylor—The girl will be out of the country. His Honor coincided with the other side without hearing him.

The remand was granted, Fried being allowed out on $1000 bail, one surety of $500 and himself in $500. Mrs. Fried was allowed out on $250 in her own recognizance and one surety of $250.

The defendants succeeded in obtaining the required bail and are now out.

LOADED DOWN WITH SALMON.

Steamer Louise Arrives From Northern Points—News Notes.

The steamer Princess Louise arrived from Northern ports at 2 o'clock this afternoon loaded down to her guards with living and dead freight. She had on board 100 packages of merchandise, and 9150 cases of salmon, having emptied the Aberdeen cannery and one on the Naas. She brought down 125 Chinamen, 8 Indians and 30 white passengers. The latter are as follows: E. H. Fletcher, Mrs. Fletcher, Miss Scott, Fort Simpson; Rev. Gurd, Mrs. Gurd and two children, Miss Anderson, Metlakahtla; John Draney, Mrs. Draney and two children, W. M. Matthews, Ed. Matheson, Frank B. Fraser, Thos. McNeish, Andrew Draney, Chas. Kirkwood, A. G. Harris, Frank Inuick, Geo. Denmitt, W. H. Dempster, Naas; John Fraser, W. J. Pollard, W. F. Carmichael, C. A. Dean, M. S. McCallum, Miss Bessie Morrison, Skeena; John Thomas, Bella Bella; D. Huson, J. Rudge, Alert Bay; Ah Sam, Mrs. Sam, Dr. Bluett, Skeena.

The trip was not by any means a pleasant one, the weather being wet and foggy, which detained the steamer. She, however, made the round trip in 12 days. The Boscowitz was just entering Fort Simpson as the Louise left. Nothing was seen of the Danube.

Messrs. F. Rudge and D. Huson, who came down from Hannington Island, where the Rudge-Huson sand stone quarry is located report that work has been progressing splendidly at that place. They have already taken out about 325 tons of splendid stone. They intend to return in about a month with a complete outfit for quarrying the stone by steam. Mr. H. Rudge, who is at the head of the scheme has managed large quarries in New Brunswick and thoroughly understands the business.

Dr. Bluett, also on the passenger list, comes from Port Chester, Alaska, or New Metlakahtla, where Bishop Duncan's followers are located.

Britain and the Porte.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 9.—An official communication notifying the powers of the recent changes made in the composition of the Turkish ministry, says these changes do not imply a modification of the general European policy of the Porte, adding that the latter continues to be guided by principles of reform at home and peace abroad. There is no doubt that Kiamil Pasha's fall was due to his supposed Anglophile policy in regard to Egypt and Yemen. The recent revolt in Yemen is believed by the Sultan to have been fomented by England. Owing to a slight received some time ago, the British ambassador declines to revisit the Sultan unless officially invited. It is reported that Kiamil has been placed under police surveillance.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A dispatch to the Standard from Constantinople says that the British ambassador at Constantinople a few days ago sent a strong note to the Porte, demanding an apology for the indignities offered to British merchant vessels in the Dardanelles.

Asiatic Cholera.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—Professor Prouste announced in the Academy of Medicine this evening that the cholera epidemic which arose in the East is nearing Alephe. He thinks the great danger to Europe lies in the Persian Gulf, and believes that the emigration of destitute Russian Jews, 7000 of whom have gone to Alephe, will increase the violence of the epidemic.

Hungarian Emigration.

BUDA-PESTH, Sept. 8.—The government has issued a circular to the effect that the postal bureau will in future refuse to deliver prospectuses or other documents sent out by immigration agencies. The government will also take other measures to repress these agencies. The government's action in this particular forms a part of the general scheme to arrest emigration.

Destructive Flood in Austria.

VIENNA, Sept. 9.—The swelling of a mountain stream running near Passail has caused considerable loss of life and property. Many factories were destroyed and several persons were drowned.

A MURDERER BALKED.

The Arrest of a Would-be Murderer Spoils His Scheme.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—The arrest of Jas. E. Cutler by the Boston police last night spoiled a diabolical scheme to murder and rob, and brought to light a collection of infernal machines, sufficient to blow up half the city. Cutler's sister married Luther H. Rowe, a wealthy manufacturer. Mr. Rowe's home is in Melrose, but his manufactory is at Haverhill. Cutler was angry because his wealthy brother-in-law refused to advance as much cash as his extravagant habits demanded, and it led to take his life. In 1888 he made the first attempt, was arrested and sentenced to two years' imprisonment. As soon as released he again laid his plans to secure his brother-in-law's wealth. He roomed on Chamber's street, and after his arrest yesterday the nature of his plot was revealed. His original plan was to blow up his victim. He laid in a big stock of giant powder, nitro-glycerine, dynamite and a regular arsenal of firearms. In addition to these weapons he had many bombs ready for use. His original scheme was to conceal a bomb in an umbrella and leave it in Mr. Rowe's hands. Upon reflection he decided that there was too much danger to himself in that plan, so he abandoned it for the plan of blowing up the house. But that might involve the destruction of his sister, and that scheme, too, was given up. Last Wednesday he confided his plan to an old friend, William Butler. He and Butler had worked together in the same shop. He asked Butler's assistance in removing Rowe and promised him half the money that was expected as the result of the crime. Butler at first thought the whole matter was a joke, but when he discovered that Cutler was really bent on murder and robbery, he pretended to approve of the scheme, in order to hold the man's confidence, and then he revealed the plot to the police. Cutler's plan was to have been put in operation last night. He was at the rendezvous waiting for his accomplice when the police arrested him. He and Butler were to have proceeded to Rowe's house in Melrose. Butler was to ring the bell and it was anticipated that Mr. Rowe would answer the bell in person. As soon as he opened the door Cutler was to shoot him. If he missed aim, Butler was to open fire. Then, having disposed of Mr. Rowe, the two were to cover Mrs. Rowe with their revolvers and force her to give up all the money and valuables in the house. In case she refused she, too, was to be murdered.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 9.—The boiler of the locomotive of the regular passenger train on the Long Island Railway scheduled to leave here at 7:06 exploded this morning with terrific force while standing at the station. Engineer Donaldson, fireman Dickinson and brakeman Mahoney were instantly killed. Their bodies were thrown some distance and terribly mutilated. The locomotive was completely wrecked. There was a large number of passengers on board the train, but so far as known none were seriously hurt. The windows of the cars were shattered and some of the passengers were thrown on the floor, receiving slight cuts and bruises. The train is known as No. 6, and usually carried residents of Oyster Bay who have to attend business in New York. Conductor Jones of the train was standing near the locomotive at the time of the explosion. He was thrown several yards and badly scalded, and was taken in a critical condition to the nearest physician. What caused the explosion is mere speculation, the most plausible theory being low water in the boiler. Engineer Donaldson was looked upon as being a most competent man. The engine was examined a short time ago and found in excellent condition.

Violation of the Coasting Laws.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Collector Phelps yesterday reported to the United States District Attorney for prosecution the case of the sloop Slieve Donard, which arrived here on July 28, with a cargo of 1000 kegs of nails. The entire cargo was seized on the ground that the vessel had violated the coasting laws. The cargo was shipped from New York to Liverpool in a foreign bottom. At Liverpool the goods were reshipped in the Slieve Donard, and brought to this city. The Secretary of the Treasury, in confirming the seizure of the cargo, said that by reshipment at Liverpool the continuity of the voyage had been broken, and that, under section 4347 of the revised statutes, the cargo thus became liable to seizure. Yesterday, Collector Phelps received a telegram from the Treasury Department, advising him that three more foreign vessels were on their way to this city with wares shipped from American ports. The cargoes of these vessels will also be seized.

The Train Robbers Identified.

VISALIA, Cal., Sept. 8.—William Dalton and Riley Dean, the suspected Cerro train robbers, were last night confronted with Mr. and Mrs. Graham, who were camping a short distance south of Ceres on the night of the robbery. Graham identified the two men as having come to their camp shortly before the robbery and asked for a drink of water, and left in a northerly direction. Dalton exhibited much confusion at the sudden meeting. Neither of the men will talk on the subject.

MODESTO, Sept. 8.—Sheriff Purvis, of this county, accompanied by Sheriff Kay, of Tulare, and Detectives Thacker, Smith, Hume and Lawson, returned from Visalia this afternoon, having in charge William Dalton and Dean, the supposed Ceres train robbers. A large crowd were at the depot to see the men escorted to the county jail and lodged in cells. Mrs W. F. Dalton arrived from Sacramento earlier in the afternoon, and accompanied her husband as far as the jail. The sheriffs, detectives and the district attorney were in secret consultation for two hours this evening.

Selling Liquor to Indians.

SEATTLE, Sept. 10.—Robert Johnson was arraigned before Commissioner Emery here yesterday morning, and charged with selling liquor to Indians. It was shown that the Indian woman to whom the liquor was sold, one of the most comely of her class was a British Columbia Indian, and the prisoner was discharged. "It makes a great deal of difference to what Indians this liquor is sold," said Justice Emery. "If the Indian buying the liquor is not either actually or constructively under the charge of an Indian agent, there is no provision in the federal laws by which the person who sells liquor to him can be punished. All Indians found in the United States, however, who have not dissolved their tribal relations and adopted the modes of living of the whites are presumed to be in charge of a resident Indian agent. This prisoner, in showing that she was a resident of British Columbia, has rebutted that presumption, and there is no provision in the federal laws by which I can do otherwise than discharge the person who is accused of selling her liquor. There is a provision in the state laws by which a person selling liquor to any Indian who is at the time within the state can be punished, and when it is a case that richly merits punishment, I generally instruct the marshal to turn the culprit over to a justice of the peace."

Two Killed.

LIMA, Ohio, Sept. 9.—A terrible fight among farmers was reported last night from Celina. Yesterday morning, while Jas. Lewis and Tom Johnson were running a threshing machine on John Cole's farm, Lewis cut Johnson on the hand. He claimed that the cut was accidental, but Johnson would not listen to explanation and rushed at Lewis, striking him a terrific blow in the face. Lewis fell under the threshing machine, and was drawn between the cylinders. He was killed instantly. Frank Lewis, a brother of James, was a witness of the affair. He caught up a pitchfork, and before anybody could restrain him, he plunged the tines into Johnson's stomach, killing him almost instantly. Lewis is under arrest.

Union Pacific Finances.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—General Solicitor Thurston, of the Union Pacific, says there is no foundation for the rumor that Gould intends giving up control of that road, or that the property will go into the hands of a receiver. He said when somebody in Wall street wanted to make a drive on Union Pacific, certain security-holders were induced to demand immediate payment. Gould was then in the far West and Ames in Europe. It did not take them long, however, to make arrangements whereby the debt had been bunched and placed with Drexel, Morgan & Co. at a lower rate of interest. The Union Pacific was never in as good condition as now.

The Washington Coast Line.

PORT TOWNSEND, Sept. 8.—The United States coast survey steamer Hassler arrived to-day from San Francisco, and will be in the Sound several days. She will take on coal and await the arrival of Lieutenant Clark from Newport, R.I., then proceed to survey and chart the Coast from Flattery Rocks southward. The vessel is in command of Lieutenant D. Delehanty, with Lieutenant J. Bliss as executive officer on board.

The Farmers' Alliance.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—F. Moultoo, who is one of the leading Farmers' Alliance men of this state, has received a letter from President Polk, at present at the head of the national organization, in which the latter says that he will leave for California about the 20th of this month. President Polk may start for the Northwest and speak in the Puget Sound cities before coming to San Francisco.

Liquor War in Illinois.

MARCOUTAH, Ill., Sept. 9.—The town of Okawaville in Washington county, 50 miles south of here, on the Louisville & Nashville railroad, is in a high state of excitement over a bitter fight between the church and the saloon-keepers.

Two weeks ago the church leaders determined to stop the Sunday beer devices, and accordingly, the following Sunday, the law was enforced and every saloon-keeper in the town was obliged to close his place. The two factions are about equally divided and each one has a strong following. On Sunday night about 50 armed men on horses rode up to the residence of Mr. A. Morgan, a pillar of the church and one of the wealthiest citizens in the county. Each member of the party had a high white cap on his head and a handkerchief over his face. The white caps surrounded the house and called to Mr. Morgan to come out. The man they called was at home, and the gleaming barrels of their guns had no terror for him. He walked boldly out with a Winchester rifle in his hand and opened fire upon his midnight visitors. Three shots were fired in quick succession into the crowd, and they fled in hot haste. It is more than likely that the white caps will steer clear of Deacon Morgan in the future. Yesterday two strangers alighted from the train, stayed at Okawaville all day, and hired a horse and buggy and drove about the town. They finally met John Tebeau, a church deacon and a prominent citizen. They had evidently been looking for him, and as soon as they saw him both sprang to the ground and pounced upon the deacon. The latter was badly beaten, and may not recover. These affairs have greatly embittered the feeling between the factions, and it is feared there will be more tragedies enacted before the war is ended.

U. S. Pacific Interests.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept. 8.—Although the efforts of this government to further the introduction of American meat products into Europe have not resulted as a result of the success of the negotiations with Germany, the greater part of official attention is now being directed to the advancement of American interests in the Pacific. Reports are expected to reach the department in a few days from Honolulu, embodying the announcement of the death of Joan Dominis, the prince consort. Developments in that quarter are being narrowly watched, on account of the possibility of an upheaval, resulting in the jeopardy of American interests. Information from Samoa being indicative of unrest among the natives, it was believed politic to send a man-of-war there. This vessel, the Iroquois, arrived at Apia a few days ago. There is at present a German man-of-war there, and an English cruiser is expected to reach there in a few days. With these vessels lending support to the established government of the islands, it is felt that any resistance to Malletoa, who occupies the throne as a result of the tripartite agreement, will be speedily overcome.

Rafting Logs to Liverpool.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 9.—The shipment of a raft of logs from St. John, N.B., to New York, last spring, demonstrated the feasibility of shipping log rafts on the ocean. Charles S. Moore, of this city, proposes to discount this feat by undertaking the shipment of a similar raft from Galveston to London as an experiment. He has consulted old sea captains and they unite in the belief that the experiment will prove successful. Mr. Moore believes that a log raft from Galveston to London would not encounter the severe storms and seas incident to the coast from the Bay of Fundy to New York harbor. Mr. Moore proposes to have the raft in readiness to start from Galveston late in July of next year. About three months will be consumed in making the raft, which will consist of three sections, firmly spiked together, after the fashion of a catamaran. It will be constructed in Galveston harbor and propelled across by the steam tug Storm King and an ocean tramp steamer of 3000 tons, owned in Liverpool. The raft is to consist of Texas yellow pine, and is intended for ship and house building. If the experiment proves a failure the loss will be about $20,000.

California's Admission Day.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Admission Day, which has been made a legal holiday, commemorating the admission of California into the Union, was generally observed in this city yesterday, nearly all business houses as well as public buildings being closed, except for a short time in the forenoon. Flags floated from many buildings and in the harbor, the United States steamship Pensacola and other vessels were gaily decorated with bunting. A light shower of rain fell early in the forenoon, and was followed by alternate spells of sunshine and cloudy weather. This did not deter a large number of holiday-makers, including the Pioneer and other societies, from leaving the city for Sausalito, El Campo, Ukiah and other points. In this city the various athletic entertainments were well attended.

Don't You Forget It.

"I will never forget that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry saved my life. Five years ago I had a terrible attack of summer complaint and was given up by the doctor and my parents. A friend advised Fowler's Strawberry and at the second dose I was relieved and soon was well as ever."—Maggie McGillivray, Falkenburg, Ont.

Fire in Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Sept. 9.—A fire started on the top floor of the four story iron and brick building, 107, 109, and 111 Myrtle avenue, and before the flames were extinguished $1,610,000 worth of property was swept away, and two firemen were injured. The building was owned by Darling & Tate, of Utica, N.Y. The ground floor of 107 Myrtle avenue was occupied by B. Schellenberg as a clothing store, and the ground floor of 109 and 111 by P. M. Baum as a millinery establishment. The second floor of the entire building was occupied by A. B. Poucher, manufacturer of advertising novelties, and the third and fouth floors by G. W. Green, manufacturers of ladies' underwear. The loss on the building is $5,000, largely covered by insurance. Schellenbere's stock was valued at $50,000, partially insured, Baum loses $50,000, fully insured. Poucher's is damaged $66,000, insured for $50,000. Green's loss is $20,000, partially insured. About 450 people are thrown out of work. Foreman Thomas Healy, of truck No. 5, and Jas. Jones of engine No. 6, were severely injured by falling glass. The fire's origin is so far a mystery, as no portion of the building had been opened and the doors were found securely locked.

Nicaragua Canal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Louis Sloss & Co., western agents of the Nicaragua canal, have received advices which indicate that Senator Warner Miller has been cordially received by some of the leading financial houses in London, at whose invitation he visited Great Britain, and that warm interest is being manifested by them in the project of the Nicaragua canal. Word also comes that the ship which was building in Scotland, has been completed and will be at once dispatched to Greytown. Various rumors indicating civil disturbance in Nicaragua have reached here, but the reports also go to show that the disaffected persons, most of whom were unfavorable to the canal project, have been expelled from the country. The canal enterprise has no direct interest in these political emotions, however, and has every assurance of the protection of this government should occasion for such arise. The report that Senator Miller was seriously ill in London is without the slightest foundation, as a recent cable from the Senator himself says he is in the best of health.

A Negro Skinned Alive.

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 8.—News was received here to-day of a horrible outrage committed on the person of a young lady teacher near Arcadia. A few days ago the young lady started to her home, two miles distant, and in a lonely place on the road was set upon by a burly negro, who dragged her into the woods near by, tied her to a tree, and left her there two days. When a searching party found her there on the evening of the second day she told them her story, telling them to hide near by, as the negro would soon return. In a short time the negro appeared and was captured. He was fearfully tortured, being skinned alive and cut to pieces, his body being left to the buzzards.

Shot Dead.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Wm. Nelson and Edwin Mitchell, both colored stable boys at the Sheepshead Bay track, quarreled to-day over work. Nelson picked up an axe and advanced towards Mitchell, when the latter pulled a revolver and shot Nelson through the head, killing him almost instantly. Mitchell gave himself up.

CASE OF THE BOODLERS.

Says the Vancouver Telegram:—"It is true we have made no demand for Sir Hector Langevin's punishment; we prefer to wait till the committee that tried him makes its report and says whether the man was guilty of corruption or was only negligent, trusting too much to corrupt subordinates." The newspaper that is not prepared to believe that Sir Hector Langevin is a rascal, after the testimony that has been advanced, is prepared to dispute the rotundity of the earth if it were a part of the Tory creed that the earth is flat. The Telegram awaits the report of the committee who "tried" Sir Hector. The evidence has been published, and the Telegram man has had the same opportunity to judge of Sir Hector's guilt or innocence that has the committee. Will the Telegram accept the verdict of the committee instead of its own? Believing in its own mind that Sir Hector is guilty, will the Telegram nevertheless accept the dictum of the committee should they declare Sir Hector innocent and publish it to the world as a righteous judgment? If the evidence before the committee had not been made public we could understand why the Telegram "should declare a willingness to abide the verdict" of the committee. But the evidence has been published, the object of which is to give a free people an opportunity to form conclusions of their own. But the Telegram has no opinion of its own. It gets its opinion ready made at Tory headquarters. Says the Telegram again: "As to McGreevy, his punishment, it seems to us, has already begun. If we understand the situation aright, he is already in effect a banished man. These facts make it quite unnecessary for us to make any demand either for the investigation of these gentlemen or their punishment." Here we have a fine discriminating sense of what is justice. Is the fact of a criminal being a fugitive sufficient punishment for his transgression? If this be so let us close our courts of law. If a political offender of the stripe of Thos. McGreevy is sufficiently punished from the fact that Canada is no longer habitable for him, then let us apply the rule to common thieves, forgers, incendiaries and the like. The last proposition is quite as reasonable as the first.

Finally, says the Telegram: "As for Mercier and Pacaud, the one seems simply to be defying both public opinion and the authority of Parliament, defying at all events the authority of the Senate, which is one of the high courts of parliament, and the other has fled the country. In this respect these accused men, if they be criminals, are more shameless and hardened and less amenable to authority than were Sir Hector Langevin and his friend McGreevy." Here again the Telegram manifests a warped moral and logical sense. We should say that the crimes of the quartette mentioned are in the same category. All four have plundered Canada; and all four, if justice were meted out to them, as would be the case with embezzlers of the baser sort, should be made to serve terms in the penitentiary.

We are now able to understand the success of Toryism in Canada for the last decade and more. It is the acceptance of opinions ready made. Toryism is intellectual slavery.

BRAZIL AND IMMIGRATION.

As Brazil is a competitor with Canada for British emigration, it is interesting to note that the London Times discourages immigration to the former country. "The climate, food, language and the whole social circumstances of the country," says the Times "are unfavorable to the average English or Irish laborer." "He falls a victim to intermittent and marsh fevers, he loathes black beans and mandioca flour, which are the staple food." "Nowhere is English less understood than in Brazil. No interpreters are provided, and the British emigrant finds himself a unit in a polyglot mob of Germans, Poles, Russians, and Italians. * * * For the first six months the emigrant gets from the government about 1s. a day. But in that time he can produce nothing saleable, and he may have to spend his allowance in a store where things are sold at fancy prices. If he is not sufficiently industrious to satisfy a government inspector, he is turned off at the end of that period, and becomes a pauper. On the other hand,' says Consul Cohen, 'should the land be profitably cultivated, and his residence enlarged and improved, he is called upon, not only to refund the daily allowance that has been made to him, but a rental fixed by the government inspector, and that rental would exceed his income. The result would be eviction. The land with all its improvements would revert to the government.' It is but fair to say that the German colonists are, on the whole, successful. Some have reached a state of rude sluttish plenty. Strings of mules and droves of pigs are to be seen, and, with patches of Indian corn, ground nuts, and sweet potatoes, the settlers make both ends meet. But they are rare cases of the survival of the fittest, and what they have done in districts suitable for Europeans, is no argument in favor of settlements made promiscuously in the southern provinces of Brazil."

The fact, however, that the Germans have prospered indicates pretty plainly that the drawback with Brazil as an abode for natives of the British Isles is less that of climate than of racial and political conditions. The average Britisher, Celt or Saxon, has little in common with the Latin races, socially or politically. The Englishman who has acquired several languages and who has become cosmopolitanized by travel may indeed find living in strange countries tolerable, but the average British emigrant knows no tongue but his own and is decidedly insular in his prejudices. He could not, if he would, adapt himself to the ways of the country and especially those of a country where "dagos" dominate. With the German, however, it is different. Migrating to Brazil in ship-loads, and settling down in communities, and above all having known no other than paternalistic government, he manages to get along. The wants of his stomach satisfied, he is mentally satisfied. He does not bother himself with political questions. So it would seem that social, racial and political causes, rather than climate are at the bottom of the Englishman's inability to appreciate Brazil; but if the success of the German colonists hardly furnishes adequate proof of it let us ascertain what the climate is.

According to the Encyclopedia Britannica there is a variety of climate in Brazil. The great northern lowland lying entirely within the tropics has great heat, and its year is divided between simple dry and wet seasons. The elevation of central and southern highland Brazil introduces great variety of seasons and climates, and toward the south beyond the tropic a temperate zone is reached in which four seasons are marked, though not as distinctly as in Europe. The whole wide plain of the Amazon basin has its rainy season from January or December till May or June, the remaining half of the year being dry, though intervals of fine weather may occur within the wet period, and of showers in the dry season. The fall of rain during the wet months is excessive, raising the level of the rivers full 40 feet, and much thunder and lightning always accompanies the heavy rain. In the valley of the Amazon the seasonal heat varies but little, owing to its equatorial position and immense surface of water and forest. Within these limits the thermometer at its highest averages 90° and the lowest 70°. At Para the mean temperature is 80, with a maximum of 95, and a minimum of 68. About the Falls of Madeira the mean annual temperature is estimated at 77. Observations, however, are very deficient for the greater portion of the Empire, or Republic, as it must now be called. In the central and southern table lands an immense variety of temperature and climatic condition are formed, from the hot humid air of the coast to the mountains, where in winter it frequently snows and where lakes may often be covered with a coating of ice. With the exception of the marshy banks and the lowlands and swamps the country is generally healthy. On the sea coast and inland in some of the maritime provinces epidemics of yellow fever and cholera morbus are experienced. The mortality in the most populous towns of Brazil is not, however, above, but rather below, that of the large cities of Europe. It thus appears that if Englishmen find Brazil uncongenial it is not owing wholly to the climate. Canada offers conditions of every kind that should be more to their liking, and should therefore attract more of them than it now does.

A Friend of British Columbia.

A gentleman living in Cowes, England, writes to the TIMES as follows:—"I enclose you cutting from Lloyd's. I wrote the editor a letter contradicting it, but it was not published, saying I had five children in British Columbia, and I had sent out besides several laborers. I said the children were doing well, and several of the laborers, who work for them. One of the men was doing badly, but this was through drink. I stated that the secret of success was having the fear of God before you and leaving the drink alone. Now, sir, two of the men I sent out were having under 20 shilling a week here, and went to British Columbia at 60 shillings per week; another who worked here at 24 shillings went there at 60 shillings. It is four years since my children left here for British Columbia, and they are still there and doing well."

Following is the correspondence appearing in Lloyd's to which the letter refers:—"There are hundreds of idle men in every town on the Pacific coast, unable to obtain employment of any kind. The province of British Columbia is boomed to death in the interest of the railways, steamboat companies, land sharks, and speculators, who have secured all the best land and hold it at an enormous advance. Men coming here in search of work will find thousands of Chinese employed in every department of labor, to the almost entire exclusion of the white man or woman—in fact, it is fast becoming a Chinese province. The Chinese do all the laundry work of the city, charge high prices, and make an enormous amount of money."

SPOTTERS ON STREET CARS.

Soon Spotted by the Conductors, They Are Given the Sixth Degree.

Every street-car line in New York employs from forty to sixty "spotters," who are paid twenty cents a round trip, and whose business it is to see that all fares received are rung up on the car indicator.

"It's the easiest thing in the world," said a Broadway car conductor to a World man, "for us to spot them. In the first place they have to keep track of every person who gets on the car and they can be seen taking notes. The usual method is for the spotter to carry a pocketful of beans. As a passenger gets on the car he transfers a bean from a full pocket to an empty one, and when he leaves the car, as he usually does when it nearly reaches the terminus, he looks at the indicator, and at his leisure counts the beans and sees if the number tallies with that shown on the register.

"Usually the spotter gets on the car about five blocks from the starting place. One of them once told a friend of mine that he had two pockets in one, so he didn't have to take his hand out at all. The spotter's word is always taken, and it is seldom that a conductor gets anything but his dismissal notice.

"There is no appeal from his report. Seven trips a day is the average made by these men, and if they do not report a man or two a week the officials think they are not attending to business. There is one consolation to honest conductors, however, and that is that the spotters have men to watch them, and no one spotter is known to another. Their statements are all mailed to the car superintendent at his residence, and they get their pay each month by mail. It sometimes happens that two will board the same car unknown to each other, and perhaps give in different reports. Whenever I am sure of a spotter I give him the sixth degree as he gets off the car.

"I can't tell you how it is done, but it works to a charm, and before night four or five other conductors know him, and the next day he is known to as many more, so that in a few weeks most of us 'get on,' as the boys say. It never fails, and the spotter becomes a walking sign to the men on the road, whose eyes are as keen as can be."

She Got Him.

A belle of Dawson county, Tex., after waiting half an hour in the office of a justice of the peace for the man she was to marry, got impatient, borrowed the justice's revolver, and started to look for her intended. At the end of twenty minutes she returned, driving the laggard before her, and the ceremony was performed.

Negro Suicides.

Suicides among negroes were entirely unknown until within the past few years, says a St. Louis coroner. In 1878 the first case of a negro felo-de-se in the history of St. Louis came to my notice as coroner. It was such a novelty as to attract widespread attention, and many newspapers claimed that it was the first case of its kind in the country. Be that as it may, it was but the forerunner of a half-dozen cases in St. Louis, and the question is no longer asked: "Who ever heard of a nigger killing himself?" Perhaps, in the purely animal state, no one ever did, but as the negro in his free state has mingled with the white man he has acquired not only his vices but his passions, fears and prejudices as well.

All particulars can be obtained at the Company's office, Wharf street.

A Curious Find.

Messrs. S. F. Harbottle and W. W. Clarke returned on the steamer Islander yesterday from a prospecting trip to the Queen Charlotte Islands. Among their discoveries, they report finding what they call a perfect copy of the Egyptian sphinx at the north end of Queen Charlotte Island. It is about three feet high, and is cut out of a solid block of wood, which seems very old but is well preserved. The carving, they say, is true to nature. They will present this specimen of supposed an ancient history to the Provincial Museum.

YOUNG & BARTLETT.

Funeral To-Morrow.

After a short illness of only two days, James Chambers, longshoreman, died at the Jubilee Hospital yesterday afternoon, of pneumonia. Chambers had at one time been an instructor in boxing and was a very intelligent man. He will be buried by the 'Longshoremen's Union. The funeral will leave Lockhart's undertaking rooms at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning for the Catholic Cathedral, where the services for the dead will be held, and thence to the cemetery.

Fast and Slow.

A Victoria merchant is of opinion that the fast voyage of the Empress of Japan across the Pacific and the fast run across the continent of the Canadian Pacific special, and the fast voyage of the Atlantic steamer, carrying the China mails, are all incidents of great importance to British Columbia, and to Canada and the Empire. The mails are in England, and the silks, etc., which formed part of the cargo are now in New York, but, more remarkable still, the sugar consigned to Victoria merchants, which arrived by the Empress of Japan, had not yet reached its destination on the day the mails arrived in England. The distance from Vancouver to Victoria is about 80 miles, and from Vancouver to Liverpool is 6000.

The Thursby Concert.

There was not a very large audience at the Emma Thursby concert in the Victoria last evening, though there was promise of good entertainment in the programme. Miss Thursby's own performance was hardly up to expectations, particularly in the singing of the polonaise from "Mignon." Her higher notes are inclined to be weak and husky. The audience, however, was well enough pleased to demand an encore, to which she responded with Theo. Marzials' ever-popular "Twickenham Ferry." In the simpler airs, "Mother bids me Bind my Hair" and the "German Laughing Song," her voice was equal to its task. The local performers were received with great favor, and deservedly so. Mr. Clement Rowlands has a fine baritone voice, which he uses with true artistic spirit and grace. Mrs. Rowlands has also a voice of fine quality, though not very strong, and each of her two songs drew forth an encore. The instrumental quartettes given by Messrs. Nash, Keating, Fielding and Scroggs, were of a high class. Mr. Nash handles his violin with rare taste and skill, and made a decidedly good impression on the audience.

Notice to Mariners.

The latest circular from the United States Hydrographic office contains the following regarding the Carmanah Point light station:

On September 15, 1891, a light and fog-signal will be put in operation at Carmanah, north side of western entrance to Juan de Fuca strait. Carmanah light is a flashing white light, showing three flashes in succession every minute, at intervals of fifteen seconds and followed by an interval of 30 seconds, during the greater part of which the light is eclipsed. The light is shown at an elevation of 173 feet above high water, and in clear weather should be visible from a distance of 19 miles. The lighthouse, 46 feet high, consists of a wooden structure with keeper's dwelling attached, and surmounted by an iron lantern. The tower and dwelling are painted white, the lantern red. The lighthouse is built on ground 130 feet above high-water mark, on the extremity of the point, immediately to the westward of the Indian village of Carmanah, and two miles N. 50° W., true (WNW. ½ W. mag.) from Bonilla Point. Position: Latitude, 48° 38 min. 38 sec. N.; longitude, 124° 46 min. 30 sec. W. The fog-signal will be a horn, operated by steam and compressed air, and will give one blast of six seconds duration every 30 seconds. The fog-horn building is of wood, painted white, with unpainted shingle roof, and stands immediately in front of and a little lower than the lighthouse tower.

Police Court Notes.

Superintendent Sheppard was missed from his accustomed place in the court this morning, having gone away on a few well-earned holidays. His place, however, was well and ably filled by Sergt. Walker, who prosecuted the cases like one born to the bar. Only three of the ordinary drunks were on the docket this morning, two of whom answered to their names and pleaded guilty. The third did not put in an appearance and so forfeited his bail.

Jas. McCulloch, who was remanded from yesterday, charged with stealing a fish from a Chinaman, was this morning dismissed for want of evidence.

Dan Templeton was charged with having robbed Henry McDonald of $15. The case was remanded till to-morrow. When the case against John Walsh, charged with having assaulted Mrs. Catharine Campbell and broken her arm, was called, Mr. Yates for the defence asked for a remand till to-morrow, in order to lay a counter charge. He said that the prisoner had only acted in self defence, as the prosecutrix had attacked him with a stick. Mr. Walker, for the complainant, agreed to the remand. The prisoner was allowed out on $200 bail. Burt Cole was charged with attempting to steal clothing from Miss Kitty Smith. It seems that Cole has been staying for some four days at the Colonial Hotel and doing nothing, but has devoted his time to inspecting all the rooms of the house, among them that the plaintiff, and getting a general knowledge of the lay of the hotel. The case was remanded for two days.

WAITING FOR THE EMPRESS

The Inconveniences to Which Victoria Passengers are Put.

A moonlight excursion on such a night as last night would on the most palatial steamer be uncomfortable for any ordinary man. But who can imagine the pleasure of taking a trip on the steamer Maude when she is crowded with chinamen and their luggage and the night is so dark and foggy that to see a light is almost impossible. Not, however, to say that the jolly captain of the Maude would not do all that was possible to make its guests comfortable. Even he was not in the best humor last night when his sleep was disturbed at 11 o'clock and he was told that it was time to start out to meet the Empress of Japan with the mails and passengers from Victoria for the steamer and a number of others who were anxious to see the ocean liner that had done so much towards breaking the record between the Orient and England.

The captain argued that it was useless to go out of the harbor until the boat had whistled, but a higher official would have it otherwise, and the Maude well loaded with passengers and baggage started. The night was just such a one as described above, dark, foggy and giving promise of rain. Some of those on the boat did not have overcoats on. The Empress was nowhere in sight and the Maude floated lazily around for an hour waiting. She might have kept on floating, for the Empress did not arrive till early morning, but that some began to feel the fog and cold wind penetrating them and they requested the captain to return. He was better natured than many, or he might have said: "It was your doings, coming out, so you can stay now." But he didn't. He simply ran the boat into the outer wharf and gave those who wanted to go ashore a chance to do so. A reporter who had been comfortably domiciled in the pilot house also piled ashore thinking that his comfortable bed at home was better than the planks on the Maude for sleeping apparatus. There were no cars, so the party who had landed walked to town. After all they were the luckiest, for they had hardly stepped into Government street when down came the rain. Oh! those unfortunates who stayed aboard the steamer Maude, and the baggage belonging to the Chinamen. The officials who had to remain with the steamer have not been seen to day, so they probably had a pretty rough time of it.

The C.P.R. could hardly be said to be responsible for the delay as the fog was dreadfully thick, but the above shows the vexations that Victoria passengers for the China boat must suffer. Surely with the number of passengers for the Empress from Victoria better arrangements could be made. Just imagine a lady who had to sit all night on the deck, or even in the cabin of a small steamer, telling her friends about it. The least the company could do would be to have a regular hour for the steamer to leave, then the passengers could sleep until that hour and go right aboard the boat.

A Rare Event.

So many features which are all of benefit to the purchaser are offered by the proprietors of the Mount Tolmie Home Building Association that the applications both for lots and houses are pouring in daily. The company have reserved a day, which will be announced in due course, so that all may have a fair opportunity of selecting the lot of their choice. There is no question but that the inducements held out are more liberal than any offered to the public of this city. The essential points which have made this enterprise so popular and which have induced so many to enquire into the workings of the undertaking and caused the present panegyric, are to be attributed to the Association's liberality. There being no interest on deferred payments, rapid development in the construction of the 200 houses, a home secured at less than would be paid out in rentals for a similar property, a deed given to heirs and assigns in the event of death, deferred payments in such an instance being cancelled. The rapid increase of the value of the property through the motive of building, the impossibility of the property once sold reverting to the vendor also no forfeiture of payments already made, if unable to continue them, the co-operative system established giving every man an interest in the development of the property. The construction of the electric car system to the property guaranteed on the printed contracts issued, to be running inside of one year.

To those not wishing to erect a house the lots are a good investment, and the terms most easy, $25 cash and $5 per month for 55 months.

No father should allow this opportunity to pass, an event which occurs but seldom, a chance to give your boy a start in life, by paying one dollar and twenty five cents a week or $5 per month, an amount you won't miss, his lot will increase in value, in 55 months, the boy will own a valuable property. A start in business for the boy, a handsome marriage portion for the girl. A few cents saved each day will pay the bill. The Mount Tolmie Home Building Association's office is 42 Fort street, where full explanations are given.

Did Not Approve of It.

The managers of the Chinese theatre, like all other theatrical managers, know that a curiosity to their audiences has to be introduced once in a while to draw crowded houses. This was the case in the Chinese theatre of this city. Business was falling off and something had to be done. Arrangements where therefore made for the appearance of one of the skirt dancers belonging to the Standard theatre. When the time came for the appearance of the girl she was not to be found, but true to their word the managers secured another skirt dancer in the place of number one. After number two had gone through her part of the entertainment number one appeared on the scene and demanded a fulfillment of the managers' contract. The girl who had performed had not been received "with rounds of applause" by the Celestial audience; on the contrary, they had hissed and hooted to show their disapproval of a leg show. The managers did not approve of paying the girl who had originally been engaged as she had not performed and they did not care about displeasing their audience any further. They had finally to give in to the inevitable and pay each girl her due, viz: $17.50.

Mr. Russell's Art.

The more one sees of Sol Smith Russell the more does one become enamored of his art. It is so true, so free from conventionality and clap trap of any kind. He never strikes one false note to mar the harmony of his embodiments. Mr. Russell's impersonation of Hosea Howe in "Peaceful Valley," is one of the best things to be seen on the American stage to-day. It is something unique and impresses the spectator with the idea of entire comicality. There are also movements of pathos such as are made known in Jefferson's "Rip Van Winkle." Over all there is the steady radiance of a bright and sunny nature. The whole picture he presents is one of dainty humor flecked with strands of tender pathos. Mr. Russell will be seen in Victoria next Monday evening the 14th supported by an excellent company.

OLDER THAN SOLOMON.

Ancient Tablets Exhumed in the Land of Egypt.

Missives That Were Passed Between the Kings of Jerusalem and Egypt Four Centuries Before the Birth of David.

The Smithsonian Institution has just received information of the recent discovery at Tel-el-Amarna, in Upper Egypt, of a number of tablets relating to the history of Jerusalem and dating back six hundred years earlier than any records hitherto known. When it is understood that these tablets of stone are letters passed between the King of Jerusalem and the Pharaoh of Egypt four hundred years before the birth of David, who was the father of Solomon, some notion will be formed of their extreme interest. These letters were written, so Dr. Cyrus Adler told a writer for the Washington Star, about the year 1500 B. C., and cast a great light upon the relations of Egypt at that ancient epoch. This of course was long before Jerusalem was captured by the Jews.

At that time Palestine was a federation of independent cities, each of which, like Jerusalem, was governed by a "prefect"—this word meaning literally "king of a city." Nevertheless, these towns paid a tribute to the Pharoah, and it was in relation to this tribute that several of the letters found were addressed to the ruler of Egypt by the king of Jerusalem, Abdi-Taba. In them he tries to explain, with due respect, that he occupies a more independent position than the other prefects and ought to be treated accordingly. For example, in one missive he says:

"Behold, this city of Jerusalem neither my father nor my mother has given unto me, but the call of a mighty King."

This refers to the ancient custom in Palestine by which rulers were sometimes chosen in consequence of a supposed divine call and without any reference to hereditary law. Having been summoned to his throne by the Deity, Abdi-Taba argued that he should be treated more leniently with regard to tribute. In another of the letters he says:

"Behold, neither my father nor my mother has appointed me to this place, but the mighty King has made me enter into the house of my fathers."

That the "mighty King" spoken of was the Deity is proved by the fact that to Him as authority is referred an oracle inscribed upon another tablet, which says that: "As long as a ship sails upon the sea, so long will Mesopotamia and Babylonia conquer."

The chief aim of the three other letters written by Abdi-Taba is to ask the Pharaoh for military aid against the foreign conquerors invading Palestine, and especially the district of Jerusalem. These warlike strangers he calls people of Habri—in other words, they were Hebrews. It seems hardly probable that the Hebrews as a nation should have invaded Palestine at so early a date, and so it is likely that these were some advanced tribes of Israel which settled down west of the Jordan and made incursions from time to time. In one of his letters on this subject Abdi-Taba says:

"The Habri people are conquering the cities of the King"—i. e., the cities tributary to the Pharaoh—"therefore the King may turn His face to His subjects and send troops. If the troops arrive this year the countries of the King, my Lord, may be saved, but if no troops arrive the countries of the King, my Lord, will exist no longer."

This tremendous "find" at Tel-el-Amarna includes two hundred tablets, largely of Babylonian cuneiform script, which is thus discovered for the first time to have been in use at so early a period in Egypt and Palestine. Many of the other tablets are dispatches of about the same date from prefects of other cities of Palestine to the Pharaoh. Some of the inscriptions are in an unknown language which no one has so far been able to translate. It is funny to think that Solomon himself would have looked upon these tablets as remote antiquities.

THE QUEEN OF HAWAII.

She Is a Dignified, Stately Woman of Education and Experience.

The queen of Hawaii, who has ascended the throne in succession to the late king; is not wholly inexperienced, as she had on several occasions acted as regent in the absence of the king. Indeed, says the Chicago Journal, she was so acting when he died. She rejoices in the name of Lydia Kamehameha Liliuokalani, and was born in 1838. Her relationship to the Kamehamehas, the first kings of the united Hawaiian islands, is through her mother. It is an old native law that legitimacy (or the right to be royal) is derived from the female, and not from the male, as in European countries. The queen, who was poor claimed heir-apparent to the throne on April 12, 1877, is morganatically married, her husband, Lieut-Gen. John Owen Dominis, being a governor of one of the islands. The new ruler is tall in stature and dignified in manner. The new queen is a woman of much strength of character, is intellectual, well read, and, in fact, clever. She speaks English fluently

School Discipline in Germany.

A queer case of school discipline has lately attracted attention in Germany. The teacher of a village school, who carried on the business of extracting teeth to increase his paltry income, utilized his dental skill for the disciplining of recalcitrant pupils. Eight boys were by him deprived of teeth, which he thought they could get along better without than with, as a punishment for gross disobedience. The parents of the pupils caused this odd disciplinarian to be prosecuted for doing bodily injury to their offspring, but the charge was dismissed because the teacher proved by expert medical testimony that instead of harming his pupils he had actually benefited them. This style of discipline however, has been prohibited

THE PEOPLE OF INDIA.

Ancient Traditions of the Hindoos and Mohammedans Exploded.

"In some respects," says Rev. I. L. Hauser, to the Chicago News, "the Hindoos are the most intellectual race in the world. In all the passive faculties of the mind, in contemplative philosophy and in memory they far excel the European. This intellectual capacity is not surprising when it is remembered that the Hindoos since about the time Moses crossed the Red sea have lived according to a system of rules regulating their life and habits quite as exacting as that of the Mosaic law. They drink no spirituous beverages. It is forbidden by their religion. Gluttony is unknown among them. Abstemious and chaste habits of life are the rule among them, and have been for countless generations. The influence of this, both physically and intellectually, has been to develop a type to which every individual is conformed. They are not strong physically, but are perfectly formed and in a certain sense handsome. They are totally lacking in the inventive faculty but strong in the imitative. They are intelligent, shrewd, polite and hospitable.

"They are as polite as the French," said Mr. Hauser. "No matter what blunder of speech a European makes in using their language they never betray the fact that they notice it. If a European asks one of them whether he has not made a blunder in speech the reply he will get will be 'Sahib speaks like an angel from heaven,' or 'Sahib speaks like one born in the land.'

"This characteristic belongs to the Mohammedans as well. I remember a young Methodist minister who came out as a missionary. His wife was one of these assertive, managing sort of women, with just a touch of the harridan in her makeup. Native shrewdness was not long in finding this out. Now the Mohammadan word for such a woman is 'boo-ree-yah,' with the accent on the first syllable, and the word for evil is 'boo-rah-ee,' with the accent on the second syllable. The young missionary was anxious to get to work as soon as possible, and to that end soon learned or thought he had learned the Lord's prayer in the vernacular. This accomplished, at the very next gathering in the mission church he made use of it. But he 'fell down,' as I believe you call it here, on the accents, and used the wrong word, thus praying to be delivered from his wife instead of from evil. Though the mistake was most ludicrous in native ears, there was not the least sign given that it had been noticed. I am quite sure as much could not be said if such a blunder should be made in this country.

"The Mohammedans, or, as we call them, 'Moohummedans,' are as distinct in appearance from the Hindoos as they are in religion. Physically they are a much larger and according to western ideals a handsomer race. In the north, toward the hills, many of them are six feet tall, straight and dignified in bearing. They are not nearly so chaste a people as the Hindoos, their religion holding up to them different ideals. Many both of the Mohammedans and Hindoos are refined, cultured and educated. All are civilized and not the savages or barbarians I find so many people here think them.

"You hear much of the poverty of India. It is true. Sixty per cent. of the population never have quite enough to eat. Yet I have never seen in India the pinching, degrading poverty I have seen in London and New York. The people of India are poor because the population is so dense, the methods of production so inadequate, partly due to the existence of caste and because the taxes are so enormous. But with all this poverty the mass of the people find it relatively about as easy to make a living as people in Europe and America. Of course, on the average, they do not live as well. But quite as dark a picture of life in America or England can be written—indeed, has been written—as any that can be written of India. The difference is that our own experience and observation relieves the melancholy of the picture in one case, while in the other we have no other knowledge than the picture gives us.

"These stories of mothers throwing their children into the Ganges is all a 'fake.' I never saw it done, or anyone who claimed to have seen it done, or, in fact, ever heard there of its being done. It is only in England and America that I ever heard of it. Children are loved there just as much as they are here. Motherhood is honored more.

"The story of men throwing themselves into the Ganges in fits of religious frenzy is another fairy tale. It probably originated from the fact that at the great festival held where the Ganges emerges from the mountains into the plain, called the 'Gate of God,' in the crowds that press down to the river to bathe it happened formerly that some were pushed or crowded into the stream by accident and swept away. The government now takes precautions to prevent such casualties. That such things might easily happen you can see for yourself when I tell you that I saw at the great festival in 1804 over two million people there, according to the government estimate, at one time. When you remember that this festival was to celebrate the completed course of the constellations of the zodiac through the heavens, and that the ceremonial of bathing in the river was to be performed at a sign from the priests that the course of the constellations was completed, you will wonder that such casualties were not frightful in their extent.

"The natives of India have no respect for a European who adopts their customs or marries a native wife. Such men are looked on a good deal as 'squawmen' are among the Indians. It is for this reason I look on the method pursued by the salvation army of adopting native customs and dress as a doubtful experiment.

"India is a wonderful country. But it is wonderful rather in its civilization, the many excellent traits of its inhabitants and what they have done, that excites our admiration, rather than because of anything told about it in the apocryphal tales that are related of it."

Angry with the Mormons.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Public opinion in Great Britain at present is turning with indignation upon the Mormon crusade being made in many of the country districts. A revelation has just been made showing that there are 200 Mormon missionaries at present working in Great Britain and Scandinavia. Particular attention has been called by the press to the operation of two young Mormon missionaries who have been operating in a village of Lancashire, and some strange disclosures as to the proselyting methods adopted are made. The result has been another upheaval of public indignation, and it is probable another and more determined attempt will be made to find some means of putting a stop to this trans-Atlantic traffic in women. The revelations just made have brought about a thorough ventilation and exposure of the methods of the Latter Day Saints.

Chilian Silver in Court.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Counsel on behalf of the Chilian Junta have applied to the high court for an order restraining the owners and officers of the steamer Moselle from parting possession with the Chilian silver with which she is expected to arrive at Southampton this week, except by depositing the same with the Bank of England. The Junta also applies for an order restraining the Plate Bank, which made advances against the silver in question, from indorsing bills relating thereto. The judge allowed the notice to be served for next Wednesday. In the meantime, temporary restraining orders were granted.

Fatal Foundry Collapse.

LEEDS, Sept. 9.—Wall's iron foundry collapsed to-day. Two children were killed, and two others are dying from the effects of injuries received.

Twelve Drowned.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Advices have been received of the wrecking of a Grimsby smack, in Iceland, and the drowning of twelve of her crew.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY AGO

There settled in Baker county, Oregon, near what is now Baker City, a man who has since become identified with the resources and development of that country. This man is no other than Mr. John Stewart, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens in the county. In a recent letter he says: "I had been suffering from pains in my back and general kidney complaint for some time, and had used many remedies without any but temporary relief. The pains in my back had become so severe that I was prevented from attending to my work and could not move about without the use of a cane. Hearing through a friend, of the wonderful cures effected by Oregon Kidney Tea, I was induced to try a box, and from that very first dose I found instant relief, and before using half the contents of the box the pains in my back entirely disappeared. I have every faith in the virtues of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and can conscientiously recommend it to my friends. I would not be without it for anything."

Oregon Kidney Tea cures backache, incontinence of urine, brick dust sediment, burning or painful sensation while urinating, and all affections of the kidney or urinary organs of either sex.

THE MILWAUKEE ROAD.

Incomparable Comforts and Conveniences for Travellers.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1, 1891.

Sometimes we make good resolves at the beginning of the year—and break em. I think it better to do than merely resolve. Let me begin the year aright by telling the thousands of daily readers of the Railway and Hotel News that, no matter what railway managers may induce tooters to claim, the fact is—the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul vestibuled train that leaves St. Paul for Chicago every evening at eight is the captain of all the "common carriers" in this neck of woods. And I say this without desiring in any sense to detract from the merits of other roads. They all have their popular features. Each has some special merit. But the "Milwaukee" possesses all these and has added some of her own. This favorite company recently decided to own its own sleeping cars, and some of the new ones that have been put into service in the last month are the most luxurious, most beautiful and best constructed sleepers ever built by any company. There is no suggestion of "gingerbread" anywhere, but solid comfort, rest, a sort of feeling as if at last we had found the great desideratum in sleeping car interiors.

Business required me to visit Chicago last Saturday evening and I selected the "Milwaukee" vestibuled because I had got a straight tip from a very prominent New York theatrical manager who had recently tried it. He declared it to be the greatest train in America. Now this is saying a good deal for there are some fairly good trains banging over the American Continent. Well, I took his tip. I fortunately got "lower 12" in one of the new sleepers of the company. Just over my head near the window a shaded electric light sent forth its penetrating gleams. The temperature of the train is kept uniformly at about seventy degrees, as it is heated by steam from a "heat and power car" next the engine. This car also furnishes the electric light for the train.

With a sigh of relief after a hard day's work I laid back on the upholstered cushions and scanned a St. Paul evening paper. The sleeper was rapidly filling up. There were two or three young ladies traveling alone, apparently as much at home as if they were under their own roof. It is a maxim with the "Milwaukee" management, and all train employes are strictly enjoined on this point, that weak and unprotected travelers over the lines of the company are, for the time being, the especial charge of each and every employe.

* * * * * * *

At 11 p.m. I "wrapped the drapery of my couch about me and lay down to pleasant dreams," and if ever one slept the sleep of the innocent and the just, it was the subscriber that night. Snow white sheets and pillow cases, downy pillows, warm blankets, thick and soft hair mattresses, all combined to woo the drowsy god Somnus in my behalf.

* * * * * * *

At Milwaukee the dining car was attached. I had thought of breakfasting at the Auditorium in Chicago, but a friend returned from his breakfast and assured me I could not afford to let that breakfast get away. And now I know I couldn't. Like the vestibuled train itself, it was "out of sight" in all particulars.

I had never been able to understand why the "Milwaukee," with so many active competitors as it has in St. Paul and Minneapolis, had been able to hold the "balance of power" as it does, with the travelling public. I know now, and I don't mind telling you: In every new departure marking a distinct advance, in utilizing every new device to add to the comfort and safety of its patrons, in the affability of its employees, and in general excellence, the "Milwaukee" is easily first. It's the model railway line between Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and as compared with some of its would-be rivals is away "Out of Sight." H.

Asphyxiated by Gas.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 9.—At 8 o'clock this morning John Boyd and J. C. Elsass, of Wavnsburg, Ohio, were found asphyxiated in a room in the Hotel Jefferson, this city. Boyd was dead, but Elsass will probably recover. They came to Toledo last night on business, and retired about 12 o'clock. The chamber maid noticed a strong odor of illuminating gas coming from their rooms this morning, and forced the door in, the men being found as stated. It is a case of carelessly turning out the gas. Boyd was about 65 years old, and Elsass is 35. They were respectively president and secretary of the Waynsburg Brick Co., and came to Toledo to close a large contract for supplying fire brick for street paving purposes.

Scarcity of Columbia Salmon.

PORTLAND, Sept. 8.—The commission men here, who have extensive orders for Columbia river salmon, found that the entire pack of this season has been sold with the exception of a few thousand cases of flats, and orders cannot be filled. The prospects for the pack of fall salmon are being enquired into and it is fouhd that there will be no fall fish packed on the Columbia, and no silversides or steelheads at any point in this section. At Willopa, Nehalem and Tillamook about 18,000 cases of large fall fish will be packed of good color, but not so oily as the Columbia river fish.

A Wealthy Oregonian Drowned.

EUGENE, Or., Sept. 8.—George H. Park, a wealthy contractor of this city, was drowned in the Willamette river this afternoon. He was fording the river, when his horse became unmanageable and overturned the buggy. His 10-year-old son, who was along, swam ashore. Park's body was recovered.

EXPLANATORY.

TO THE EDITOR,—In my sketch of Cariboo life which appeared in WEEKLY TIMES of Dec. 31, 1890, the names of P. Howley and H. Shannon are mentioned to illustrate a state of things in Cariboo. Now as some persons have and as others in the future may attach a disparaging meaning to their names in this connection, I wish to state that no such meaning is intended by the writer nor is it justified by the language used. Indeed such a meaning is not in accord with the design of the sketch, which is written in a truthful and friendly spirit. It was not to detract from the reputation of these two gentlemen, but on the contrary to be friendly and complimentary. GEORGE FERGUSON.

OVERCROWDING AND NEGLECT.

TO THE EDITOR:—Probably the Esquimalt section of the car lines is about the best paying route the company has, and about the worst looked after as regards running on time and overcrowding. It seems lately as if the company do not care how things run. Yesterday, a nasty wet afternoon, they had to take one of the cars off for repairs, and never as much as put a notice up to let the public know what was wrong. It would have been a very easy matter for Mr. Higgins to have put a notice up at Esquimalt end, and the power house, instead of keeping people standing in the rain forty minutes expecting the car every minute; but I suppose he has not any time to spare just now. It must take it all studying out a new schedule to get even with his employees. Another thing I would like to draw attention to, and that is the way the cars are overcrowded at times. I think it ought to be put a stop to, before a very serious accident takes place. It is a common thing for from 60 to 100 people to crowd upon the cars on the Esquimalt route, and I am sure it is not safe to cross the trestle-work with such a heavy load. There is a place on the trestleing by the canteen that sways six or eight inches out of plum every time a car passes. Some day it will go into the road if it is not braced. I called their attention to it a month ago, and it was reported to the office, but it has never been attended to yet. I suppose it will when somebody gets killed.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 9.—The Agricultural Congress has adopted a resolution in favor of international co-operation to suppress the adulteration of food.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all disease cases of the medicine, tried, does trace of salt rheum, the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. In its preparation, its medicinal merit, and the wonderful cures it accomplishes Hood's Sarsaparilla is Peculiar to Itself. Thousands testify to its success, and the best advertising Hood's Sarsaparilla receives is the hearty endorsement of its army of friends. Every testimonial we publish, and every statement we make on behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla may be relied upon as strictly true in every respect.

If you need a good blood purifier or building up medicine, be sure to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Further information and statements of cures sent free to all who address us as below.

COAL

The New Vancouver Coal Mining & Land Co., L'd.

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL (Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes).

THE SOUTH FIELD COAL (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL

House and Steam Coal are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, a high Illuminating Power unequalled by any other bituminous Gas Coal in the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used by all the Leading Steamship Lines on the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL, which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay, where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.
